

American divers will try to salvage Lusitania

KINSDALE, Ireland UPI — Her propellers alone are worth $400,000. There may be a fortune in gold to boot, plus the answer to a riddle of history.

She is the Lusitania, the "Queen of the Atlantic," sunk by a German torpedo on May 7, 1915, in one of the greatest sea disasters. A team of American divers is going in where others have failed to try for salvage.

On that day 52 years ago, 1,150 died of the 1,959 aboard. Among the victims were 114 Americans whose country was at peace.

To this day, the horror of it still lingers in the tiny fishing village and holiday resort of Kinsdale in County Cork.

Just eight miles off its rugged coast lies the Lusitania in 315 feet of water. She lies on her starboard side which was ripped by the torpedo. Some believe she hides a fortune in gold bullion.

The answer may lie with a tight-lipped American salvage expert and his crew.

John Light, 34, a Bostonian and a former U.S. Navy diver, bought the salvage rights of the 32,000-ton Cunard liner for about $3,000.

He has made an intensive study of the ship he hopes to salvage. But Light isn't talking about it. He discourages visitors to his trawler and he discounts the talk of bullion.

For him it is a nuts-and-bolts salvage operation. The giant bronze propellers—there are four of them and each weighs four tons—are estimated to be worth $100,000 each at current market rates.

In the Lusitania's hold there are 100 tons of copper. There are valuable brass fittings; and there probably is a small fortune in private jewelry.

The work of salvage is both difficult and dangerous in this storm-tossed region which experiences severe fluctuations in weather and tides.

Light fully understands the difficulties facing him, ever since 1960 he has been studying the Lusitania on and off. He completed a television film on the sinking in 1961 and is now ready for what should prove his final attempt to salvage the liner.

Twice before, diving missions have failed. In 1935 a British syndicate tried. A few years later Italians tried.

Now the Americans are confident they can succeed.

Kirk Hammond of Greencastle High School was among 48 topnotch high school students from 18 states who participated in an eight-week summer science training program sponsored by Loyola University in New Orleans under a grant from the National Science Foundation.

The program was one of 133 throughout the U. S. which sought to give science-oriented boys and girls a taste of college-level instruction and research while they are still in high school.

The students attended lectures and did laboratory work in chemistry, physics, and mathematics; participated in seminars by guest scholars reporting on research techniques in science and the arts; and visited academic and industrial research laboratories in the area.

"They are not required to pursue scientific careers after high school," said Dr. John F. Christman, director of Loyola's program. "What we want to do is challenge them intellectually as they probably have never been challenged until now."

Insults exchanged by South Viet candidates

SAIGON UPI—About 100 South Vietnamese senatorial candidates rallied in a waterfront hall Tuesday night and demonstrated that campaigning Vietnamese-style isn't exactly smiles over tea and fortune cookies.

They traded insults before somebody cut off the electric lights, air conditioning and loudspeaker system. One seething candidate spit in another's face and the military government was accused of "sabotage."

Then about 40 "antigovernment" candidates stalked out to another hall and held a meeting to protest "government trickery."

The meeting in the water front conference hall was called by Senatorial candidates who claim some of their opponents are getting illegal support from Gens. Nguyen Van Thieu and Nguyen Cao Ky, the military government leaders who are the prime candidates for president and vice president in Sunday's election.

The senate balloting is also scheduled Sunday with 48 lists of 10 candidates vying for 60 seats. The senatorial election is considered important in South Vietnam's political rooting toward democracy but has been overshadowed by the equally tart presidential campaigning.

Tuesday's rally began with a flurry when "crossbow and arrow" candidate Dinh Thanh Chau denied his was a pro-government ticket and showed newsmen what he called the "real list" of government-backed hopefuls.

Army Capt. Nguyen Huu Khang, listed by Chau as pro-government, sprang from his chair and spat in Chau's face.

The candidates began shouting at once into some 50 microphones placed before them around a huge U-shaped table in the midst of the ballroom-sized hall. Several candidates sought to preside and restore order but were booed down by their opponents.

Segregationist nominated by Mississippi Democrats

JACKSON, Miss. UPI — Mississippi Democrats nominated segregationist congressman John Bell Williams for governor Tuesday and kept Negroes from spreading their unprecedented beachhead in local politics.

Williams, 48, whose support of Republican Barry Goldwater in the 1964 presidential race cost him his House seniority among the Democrats, beat state treasurer William Winter, 44, in a primary runoff.

Williams, who pledged to oppose the re-election of President Johnson, faces GOP candidate Rubel Phillips in the Nov. 7 general election. Phillips, a Jackson attorney, ran a strong race in 1963 against Gov. Paul Johnson, prohibited by law from succeeding himself.

Twenty-two Negroes, who won runoff spots in the Aug. 8 primary, when members of their race made their strongest election showing since reconstruction,

Open-housing march is end to tense racial peace in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. UPI — White crowds reacted with rocks, bottles and eggs to an open-housing march Tuesday night, ending a month of uneasy racial peace. A firebombed civil rights center burned to the ground while sniper fire pinned down firemen who sought to fight the flames.

Twice during the nearly six-mile march through the city's predominantly Polish, all-white south side, police used tear gas to disperse crowds of jeering whites who tossed bottles, firecrackers, eggs and stones at the marchers.

An estimated 13,000 persons lined the streets. At least 34 arrests, mostly of white hecklers, were made, police said, and hospitals reported treating some 30 persons.

Mayor Henry Maier declined to reimpose a strict curfew he clamped on the city during rioting in its inner core section four weeks ago, but said he would stay at City Hall to keep Gov. Warren Knowles abreast of activities.

He asked for a voluntary curfew, but was ignored.

Maier criticized the Rev. James E. Groppi, Roman Catholic priest leader of the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). He said the situation was made more tense by "provocateurs."

"We know there are known communists in there," Maier said of the marchers. "Groppi achieved what he wanted. He's got the white backlash out in the open."

Maier said the persons he referred to as Communists were not members of the youth council.

The firebombing destroyed the youth council's Freedom House headquarters in the north side's inner core—scene of the rioting a month ago.

Firemen racing to the scene were pinned down by sniper fire for 15 minutes. Police who returned the sniper shots, said no one was injured and no arrests were made at the fire scene.

Father Groppi, at an impromptu news conference across the street from the burned-out building, vowed his group would return to the south side tonight to renew its drive for an open-housing ordinance.

Near Kosciuszko park, police used tear gas to disperse a crowd of cursing hecklers who had bombarded Groppi and the 200 marchers with eggs and firecrackers.

Signs reading "Polish Power" and "White Power" were waved at the marchers.

682 freshmen due on DePauw campus Sunday

Greencastle's population will jump measurably Sunday when 682 freshmen arrive to start orientation week activities at DePauw University.

Together with the approximate 1,700 upperclassmen who started arriving last week, the university's enrollment may soar over 2,400 by the time classes begin Sept. 8.

The main event on Sunday's schedule will be a 3:45 p.m. convocation on the East College lawn. Dr. William E. Kerstetter, president of DePauw, will extend his welcome to the new freshmen and their parents and introduce members of the university staff. Director of Admissions Lou Fontaine will preside.

Most of the remainder of the day and the week will be devoted to the business of placement testing, counseling, rush, and auditioning.

The new students are scheduled to hear at least two major addresses during the week. Dean Robert H. Farber will outline "The Academic Program at DePauw" in a Tuesday morning speech in East College. President Kerstetter will address an all-university convocation at 11 a.m. the same day at Gobin Church.

For the university faculty activities will begin Friday—two days ahead of the student influx—with the second annual Faculty Conference and luncheon.

The luncheon in the Memorial Student Union will precede a general session of the conference which will be addressed by President Kerstetter and Dean Farber. A subsequent session, beginning at 2 p.m., will be devoted to discussions of the university's new curriculum proposals.

These sessions will be chaired by Professors Clifton J. Phillips (Intercultural Education Study); Clinton B. Gass (Mathematics Curriculum Study); Dwight L. Ling (Curriculum Study—Freshman Year); and Donald J. Cook (Science Curriculum Study).

Two men arrested

Two men were arrested and lodged in the Putnam County jail Tuesday night and early this morning.

Floyd R. Atha, 47, Cloverdale, Route 2, was booked at 10 p.m. Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Bob Ziegelman for assault and battery.

Everett H. McKinney, 55, Kankakee, Illinois, was taken into custody at 1:55 this morning on Avenue D by Officer John Stevens and slated for drunken driving.

Pictures of Yank airmen in Communist newspapers

HONG KONG UPI — In gloating terms local Communist newspapers today described the capture of one American airman downed over Red China and the death of another.

The published photographs and identified the captive as Navy Lt. Robert J. Flynn. They named the dead airman as Navy Lt. Cmdr. Jimmy L. Buckley.

A typical headline said, "severe punishment by our defense force to flying pirates of U.S. imperialism."

In Saigon last week U.S. officials said a pair of U.S. Navy two-man A6 Intruder jets were shot down over Red China after straying across the border while being chased by North Vietnamese MIG interceptors and missiles.

The Communist newspapers published photographs of wreckage identified as the two downed A6 Intruders lost over Kwangsi province Aug. 21.

The papers published a photograph of a body identified as that of Buckley. Also pictured was his identity card, no. 616613.

The photograph showed the body lying, face up in weeds or bushes. He still had on his uniform. The caption described Buckley as an "American robber pilot."

An earlier New China News agency report from Peking described the Aug. 21 capture. After telling of two U.S. planes being hit, it said, peasants spotted a parachute and yelled, "The U.S. air pirate has bailed out."

"Carrying rifles, shoulder-poles and spades, militiamen and peasants rushed from all directions . . . they quickly found the parachute but the U.S. intruder had fled . . . when two militiamen located the U.S. air pirate hidden in a thicket, they shouted, 'The U.S. devil is here.'"

"Two soldiers came forward and shouted, 'hands up!'"

"The pilot of the U.S. imperialist plane white with fear, kneeled down, trembling, held up both arms and begged for forgiveness. The men took him into custody."

"In the hospital, the U.S. intruder said to the Chinese army surgeon in awe-struck tones: 'I'm lucky to be alive.'"

Clubs represented at Indiana Fair

The Homemakers Extension Clubs of Putnam County were represented at the State Fair by an exhibit from the Fashion Blenders Club of Russellville.

The exhibit which received the prize of $180.00 for Extension Clubs exhibits, was entitled "Outdoor Cooking with Homemade Grills." It is in the Horticulture Building.

The homemade grills were: a large clay flower pot, painted black with a round grill and red bricks with a stone rack for a grill. A nail keg painted black was used for charcoal and a white plastic bottle for water. A red and white checked tablecloth enhanced the setting where models of chicken, steaks and shish-kabobs were being grilled.

The president of the Fashion Blenders is Mrs. Richard Graham. The planning committee for the exhibit was Julia White, Marilyn Hoff, Donnie Joe Kelly, Sharon Strausberger, Ruth Fulwider, Joan Everman, Carolyn Goff, and Beulah Allgood, assisted by the membership of the club.

DPU junior victim of skiing accident

An Evansville student who would have been a junior at DePauw University next month died Monday following a water skiing accident at Lake Geneva, Wis.

The victim was David Keith Newman, 20, a Rector Scholar and a major in the department of economics.

Wisconsin officials said Newman died Monday evening in an Elkhorn hospital after the noon time accident.

Newman, according to the report, was water-skiing with a friend when he fell into the water. He was recovered floating in the water and revived by a member of the lake's safety patrol.

He died, however, five hours later at the hospital. His death was ruled accidental and due to asphyxiation.

It was his first attempt at water skiing.

Vice President to visit city Friday

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will pay a visit to Greencastle Friday morning and deliver a speech which will honor his old friend, Bishop Richard C. Raines, and also touch on the international situation.

Mr. Humphrey will arrive from Indianapolis by helicopter and land at Blackstock Stadium at approximately 9:45 a.m.

His speech is scheduled for 10 a.m. in Gobin Memorial Methodist Church.

His route from Blackstock will be east on Hanna Street, North on College Avenue and east on Simpson Street to the rear entrance to the church. There he will be greeted by the children in the Head Start Program.

Following his talk, Mr. Humphrey will leave by the front door of the church and all the Putnam County school teachers will greet him on Simpson Street.

His departure for Indianapolis has been set for 11:15 a.m.

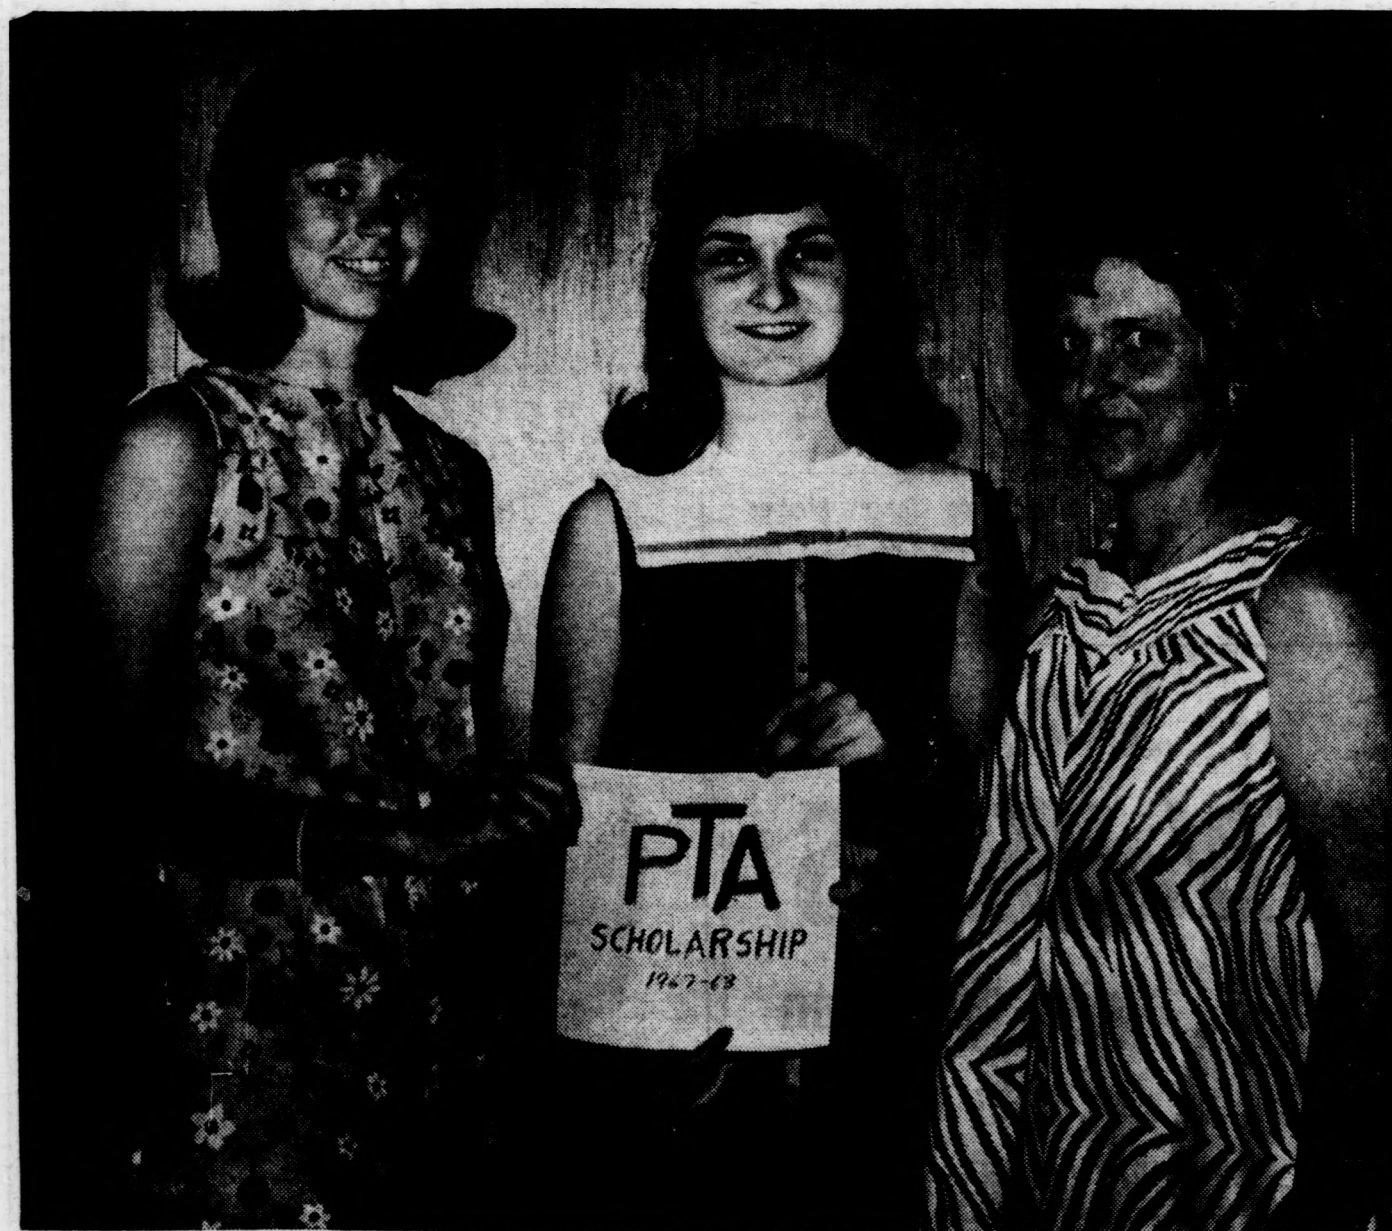

Pennsy 43 detour set for Sept. 11

Due to the fact that rails and other supplies did not arrive, the scheduled repair work on the South Bloomington Street crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad has been postponed until September 11.

The Ind. 43 and U.S. 231 detour at this crossing had been set for Monday through today.

A Pennsy crew is now working on the tracks at the rear of the IBM plant, east of the city.

Starting Tuesday, September 5, the crew will begin work on the railroad crossing on Ind. 240 near the Mallory Plant. It was reported that a detour will be in effect at this crossing for the remainder of the week following Labor Day.

AWARDED SCHOLARSHIPS—Putnam County recipients for the P.T.A. Scholarship awards are (l. to r.) Miss Linda Baumunk and Miss Velvet Ann Clark of Greencastle. Both young ladies are junior Education majors at Indiana State University. Mrs. J. L. Stamper, District Director of the Indiana Congress of Parents and Teachers is shown congratulating them. Miss Baumunk graduated from Greencastle High School and Miss Clark is a graduate of Fillmore High School. The Indiana P.T.A. Congress awarded some 65 future teachers scholarships in the field of education.

Showers, cooler weather expected

By United Press International

The threat of showers hung over most of Indiana today amid indications the below-normal temperature trend of the last couple of months will continue into the first week of September.

There was a 40 per cent chance of rain downstate today—slightly less elsewhere—followed by clearing Thursday and generally fair at least through Friday.

South Bend measured .43 of an inch of precipitation in the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Fort Wayne had .16, and Lafayette a trace.

The five-day forecast called for less than a quarter of an inch of rain, most of it apparently over the Labor Day Weekend.

Temperatures, meanwhile, will average up to 10 degrees below normal through Monday, according to the extended outlook, with slight warming likely over the weekend.

Highs Tuesday were in the low 80s and overnight lows this morning ranged from 67 at South Bend and Indianapolis to 60 in the Chicago and Louisville-Cincinnati areas.

Highs today will range from the upper 70s north to the mid-80s south, lows tonight generally in the 50s, highs Thursday in the 80s.

In Memory

In memory of our dear loving husband and father, Paul Raymond Stewart, who departed this life, 2 years ago, Aug. 30.

Dear Lord, please take this message

To our loved one up above; Tell him how much we miss him

And give him all our love. Although his soul is now at rest, And free from care and pain, The world would seem like heaven

If we could have him back again. If all the world was ours to give

We would give it and more To see the face of the one we loved

Come smiling through the door. Sadly missed by wife Ruby and children, Paula, Ricky, Mark and Penny.

Hints from Heloise

by HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

As most of us wives have to iron shirts, may I please let other homemakers in on the method I learned so well while working in a laundry. It has saved me hours of frustration! After ironing the inside and outside of shirt cuffs, I iron the placket side of the sleeves first. Then turn them over and iron the other side.

Next comes the inside of the front facings. The facing with the buttons I do on a folded towel. The buttons will sink down into the towel and it gives a smoother finish. Then I do the inside of the pockets and underneath side of the collar.

Now, starting on the outer part of the shirt, I iron the outside of the collar from the points to the center. And picking up the shirt by the lower corners of the yoke, I iron this gong over the shoulder to the front.

I lay the body of the shirt flat on the ironing board—inside facing up and the left side seam at the far edge of the board—and iron the back on the inside, then lay the front over and iron it like flatwork.

I repeat this procedure with the side nearest me.

The final touch is a once over to the outside of the collar again, and the shirt looks like a magazine ad—even if I do so myself!

Margaret L.

Margaret, we do thank you many times for the "inside" dope on this tricky job. And happy ironing, gals!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

We use an old golf bag, which my husband discarded, to store our garden tools in the utility room.

They're all in one spot and we always know where they are. We find it ideal because it keeps them all from falling or sliding around when we are trying to select just one.

Peggy

Dear Heloise:

I have a problem. I make good tasting gelatin, but when I get to the bottom of the bowl, it's like shoe leather.

I've tried several different methods, but it still comes out like this every time.

What am I doing wrong?

"Worried Gelatin Maker"

Gals, let's try to help our friend. How do you make yours successfully? Write us in care of this paper.

You may have a fool-proof way that we all would like to know.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I just wanted to tell you that a grapefruit knife is the best thing I have ever used for cutting corn off the cob!

The serrated cutting edge and the curved blade seems to cut the kernels better without mashing them.

It does a quick job and works like magic for me.

Mrs. H. L. Smith

Dear Heloise:

If you have pictures on the walls of a sick room, try changing their location occasionally so the patient will get a different view.

A little change helps a lot.

Mabel McHugh

Dear Heloise:

For a quick and easy brush off on your shoulders and back, use a long-handled bath brush. Works great. Especially good when there's no one around to do this job for you . . .

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

Like most children, my three-year-old had trouble getting his right shoe on his right foot.

I put a speck of red nail polish inside the right shoe and on the toenail of his right foot. It helps keep him from looking as if his feet were on the wrong legs . . .

Secret session of Arab heads

KHARTOUM, Sudan UPI — Eight Arab heads of state met behind closed doors today in a bid to patch up bitter inter-Arab quarrels and forge a common program to "eliminate the consequences of Israeli aggression."

Long-time enemies President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia set the reconciliatory tone by holding hands as they rode together to the republican palace for the second secret session of the Arab summit.

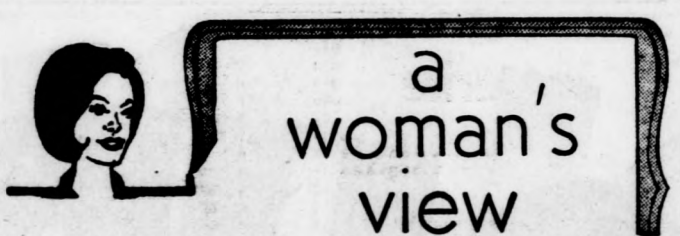

Earlier, Nasser and Faisal chatted informally for about 10 minutes after posing together for photographers at the Sudan hotel.

It was the first meeting of the two bitterly opposed Arab leaders in two years.

Nasser twice snubbed Faisal Tuesday and refused to ride in the same car from the airport with the Saudi Arabian king. Police used tear gas to disperse pro-Nasser demonstrators who yelled anti-Faisal slogans as the king followed Nasser into Khartoum from the airport.

The reconciliatory mood of the two Arab leaders today raised hopes of peace in civil war-torn Yemen where the U.A.R. and Saudi Arabia have been backing rival forces for the past five years.

Jordan's King Hussein, who also made his peace with Nasser in May, shortly before the June war, rode with Nasser and Faisal from the hotel to the palace. All three were seen holding hands.

a woman's view

By Gay Pauley
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK UPI—When law violators tell it to the judge in Buffalo, N. Y., or Kirkland, Wash., they frequently tell it to a woman.

Both cities are among those where women sit on the bench to hear civil and criminal cases. Many violators are breakers of traffic laws. And hearing the defense of those who often treat running a red light as casually as stamping out a cigarette has given the two attractive women some strong opinions on causes for the staggering highway toll and what the citizenry can do about it.

The women are Ann T. Mikoll, a just barely 5 feet tall brunette who has been an elected associate city court judge in Buffalo for 10 years, and Carolyn Reaber Dimmick, a small, slim blonde, and judge also elected since 1965 of the north-east justice court, headquartered in Kirkland.

They look like pretty matrons preoccupied with shopping or the bridge club circuit than stern jurists who can mete out stiff sentences to breakers of the law.

But to talk to them about cutting the national highway toll (53,000 killed last year) and they have no patience with the law-breaking driver.

"The toll of the innocent is higher than in all other criminal matters together," said Judge Mikoll. "The highways are killing more than the wars."

"The most important thing is to get people practicing citizenship . . . good citizenship is obedience to all laws," said Judge Dimmick.

"Too many people see no moral wrong in traffic violations," Judge Mikoll said. "There is no stigma attached. Yet a conviction is a criminal record . . . the penalty goes on FBI and Military Records. But high schools don't always point out that a criminal record is for a lifetime . . . that a career could be damaged forever."

The solutions, the two agreed lie in that awareness of good citizenship, in stiffer penalties for violators, in driver education, in uniform traffic laws and in just plain courtesy on the road.

Why does an ordinarily nice guy turn into some sort of demon on the highway? I asked. "He's protected by his car and he's anonymous," said Judge Mikoll.

The two women agreed that speeding is the number one cause of accidents.

"You get on a freeway where the speeds are set at 60 and 70 miles an hour," said Judge Dimmick. "Off that freeway, you're tempted to keep it up even in a 45 miles or 50 miles an hour zone."

They hear far more traffic cases involving men, although it is estimated there are 40 million women drivers today. "Women don't like to go 80 and 90 miles an hour," Judge Dimmick said. "Men are by nature more aggressive."

The only peoples unable to make fire in the 20th century were the Andaman Islanders and the Congo pygmies.

Prairie dogs are large, fat-bodied ground squirrels that live in colonies, a maze of burrows called "towns."

Couple exchange vows in double - ring ceremony

Miss Janet Kay Duncan became the bride of Jonathan Edwin Smith in a double ring ceremony on Saturday, August 5 at the Presbyterian Church in Roachdale.

Parents of the bride and groom are, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Duncan and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Smith of Roachdale.

Rev. Frank Hainer, after a short sermon, followed by the hymn "The Church's One Foundation" sung by the guests, read the vows before an altar banked with palms and white gladioli and candelabra.

The organist, Mrs. Dorothy Crosby, played a selection of appropriate music before the ceremony and the traditional wedding march.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full floor length gown of lace. The bodice was styled of lace with a scalloped neckline and wrist length sleeves ending in bridal points. Her train, a wide peacock unit, attached at her shoulders and extended to traditional length, was also of lace. Her veil of silk illusion was secured by a crown of pearls. She carried a cascade of yellow roses and Stephanotis on a white Bible.

Miss Janice Fay Duncan, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Another sister, Betty Jean Duncan was bridesmaid. The junior bridesmaids were, Sherry Lynn Duncan and Cindy Lou Harbison, sister and niece of the bride, all of Roachdale. They wore identical floor length gowns of yellow brocade and haedpieces of yellow net secured by a yellow satin rose. Each carried a nosegay of yellow roses and white daisies.

John Rusk of Roachdale served as best man. Ushers and groomsmen were Cliff Berger of Plymouth, William Watson, cousin of the groom of Crawfordville and Carl Duncan, brother of the bride, Roachdale.

The bride's mother wore a blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow cymbidium orchids. The groom's mother chose a beige dress with brown accessories and wore a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Bonnie Harbison, Mrs. Joyce Gossel, Mrs. Lois Preston, sisters of the bride, Mrs. Betty Farrow, Mrs. Ellen Purcell, Miss Glenda Purcell and Mrs. June Garner, served at the reception following the ceremony. Mrs. Linda Friars, cousin of the groom, registered the guests from Crawfordville, Greencastle, Russellville, Ladoga, Indianapolis, Brazil, Bainbridge, Greenfield, Plymouth, Columbus, Mooresville, Remington, Springfield, Ohio and Southgate, California.

The bride is a graduate of Roachdale High School and Indiana Technical Institute in Indianapolis. She is employed as technician in Dr. Kall's office in Ladoga. The groom is a graduate of Roachdale High School and Indiana State University, and will teach at the Laura Hose School in Crawfordville.

Pre-nuptial showers were given by relatives and friends of the bride and groom. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside in Roachdale.

U.S. observers in South Viet

SAIGON UPI — The United States' 22-man delegation sent by President Johnson to observe South Vietnam's presidential election and scout for cheating arrived today under heavy security.

Led by former South Vietnamese ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the team was greeted by ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and U.S. commander in Vietnam Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

In the campaign itself, South Vietnamese chief of state Nguyen Van Thieu said today he was willing to hold peace talks with the Viet Cong.

Thieu added, however, that any final negotiations must be held with Hanoi. Thieu's statement to an audience of about 10,000 army draftees was a moderation in his earlier statements that he would refuse to negotiate with the Viet Cong.

Thieu, the military candidate for president in Sunday's voting, said he still considered Hanoi the "principal opposite party in peace talks."

More than 80 guests from 23 nations have accepted invitations from Thieu's military government to observe the elections.

Security teams picked over the airfield and the airport's VIP lounge today before the American delegation arrived. Military men stood guard on top of roofs of nearby buildings to guard the Americans against terrorist attack.

Viet Cong terrorists have stepped up their activity in an effort to thwart turnout for the election.

THEATRE buff Mayor John Lindsay's valiant effort to lure movie producers back to New York is achieving notable results. No less than a dozen big features are scheduled to be shot in Manhattan in the next three months. Douglas Watt asked one of the producers, "Do you expect Mayor Lindsay to visit the set while you're filming here?" "Whaddya mean, visit?" answered the producer. "He's going to dance in the picture!"

"One reads," notes Bernice Kite, "how lawyers are sometimes disbarred and ministers defrocked." "Would it not be in line," she continues, "if those of us in other walks of life should have equally magnificent terms for getting fired?" "Far Eastern diplomats, for instance, might be Disoriented, electricians Delighted, cashiers Distilled, Alpine climbers Dismounted, piano tuners Unstrung, and orchestra leaders Disbanded." By now I'm sure you have the idea.

A group of rapacious relatives gathered around the bedside of a desperately ill merchant. One of them, trying to appear solicitous, inquired, "Uncle Boris, if, unfortunately, you fail to survive this attack, where do you think you'd like to be buried?" Uncle Boris regarded his nephew balefully and whispered, "I don't know. Why don't you surprise me?"

First tropical storm brewing

MIAMI UPI — Tropical storm Arlene, the first of the hurricane season, blew up in the eastern Atlantic today with winds up to 60 miles an hour and forecasters expected it to reach hurricane strength by Thursday.

The National Hurricane Center said Arlene was about 1,500 miles southeast of Bermuda, at least two days away from the nearest land. It was moving toward Bermuda at about 17 miles an hour.

Forecasters Arnold Sugg said a Navy Hurricane hunter flew out of Puerto Rico toward the growing storm, and was expected to reach its ill-formed center by afternoon.

He said he hoped to get information from the plane in time for an evening advisory on the storm. "We did get a ship early today which reported 30 knot winds," said.

Satellite pictures and ship reports indicated the depression, which warned off the African coast for several days and had appeared to be weakening, had intensified gradually Tuesday. Its center at least report was near latitude 23.0 north, longitude 42.5 west.

Arlene is the fifth tropical depression of the season, but the first to develop into a storm. An Air Force plane from Bermuda tried to reach the storm for more information Tuesday.

Farm Bureau Insurance Names Wilbur Siebrase Manager

The officers of the Farm Bureau Insurance Companies take pride in announcing the appointment of Wilbur Siebrase as new agency manager of the Putnam County Farm Bureau Insurance Agency.

Mr. Siebrase started in 1965 as an agent with the Parke County Farm Bureau Insurance Agency. He assumed his new position this month. He is a Silver Medalist, has won the company's popular Canadian trip, and is a member of the coveted Trailblazer Club. Mr. Siebrase has demonstrated a high degree of professional ability — not only personally, but in being able to guide and assist agents:

- To recognize and provide for the needs of people.
- To apply their insurance knowledge according to the principles of Farm Bureau Insurance.

Your selection of an insurance counselor is extremely important to your family's future happiness and security. An appointment reviewing your insurance program with Mr. Siebrase or a member of his staff may be the wisest investment of your time that you will ever make. And it costs you nothing.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK UPI—Thomson & McKinnon says, considering the news background, the stock market is not turning in a "bad" performance. The analyst suggests low volume in the declining market indicates an absence of buyers rather than pressure. If this is so, the company says the Dow Jones industrial average should find support at the 880 level.

Arthur Wiesenberger & Co. notes fall business prospects become more discernible around Labor Day and any disappointment developing in the face of an expected improvement would have an effect on market sentiment and prices. The company suggests that investors keep a balanced portfolio with individual attractive stocks, some inflation-deflation hedges and "defensive" securities.

Oppenheimer, Newburg & Neu says it is not optimistic regarding the immediate future of the stock market and suggests a further setback is a "reasonable expectation." The analyst advises investors to diminish speculative commitments and build up buying power to take advantage of possible further sharp declines.

SAUCY CHICKEN STACKS FOR PATIO LUNCHEON

Want to give a party but don't have an excuse for one? Go right ahead and make up the guest list anyway. Just good friends getting together for interesting conversation is reason enough. And what better setting than a gentle summer day, and an informal patio lunch.

Create a festive mood with an appealing table setting . . . crisp, colorful linen, and a bright splash of garden flowers.

To the pleasure of your guests, make the main course Saucy Chicken Stacks. These luscious open-face sandwiches start with toasted English muffin halves, then go on to tender chicken slices, golden pineapple rings, and a topping of curry-dashed canned giblet gravy. This smooth and creamy good gravy chock-full of diced giblets is a ready made sauce. Just open the can, add your own flavor touches if desired, heat and serve in any one of many handy ways.

Conclude lunch with hot coffee and a pretty dessert—scoops of fruit flavored sherbet rolled in lightly toasted coconut.

Saucy Chicken Stacks

1/2 cup sliced celery	1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/2 cup chopped onion	4 servings hot sliced cooked chicken
2 teaspoons curry powder	1 can (14 1/2 ounces) pineapple slices
2 tablespoons butter or margarine	2 English muffins, split and toasted
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) giblet gravy

In saucepan, cook celery, onion, and curry in butter until celery is tender. Add gravy and lemon juice. Heat; stir now and then. Meanwhile, arrange chicken and pineapple on muffin halves. Pour sauce over. Makes 4 open-face sandwiches.

Foreign News Commentary

Foreign News Commentary
By Joseph W. Grigg
LONDON UPI—The burning and sacking of the British Embassy in Peking and the manhandling of its staff struck a damaging blow at one of the oldest principles in international relations—the generally accepted inviolability of diplomatic missions.

Diplomats, who for centuries have considered themselves immune against attack or arrest, suddenly have found themselves hostages and in the firing line of a seething power struggle.

That explains—in part, at least—the anger with which the British government condemned the attack as an "outrageous and uncivilized act which will bring the Chinese government into disrepute throughout the world."

The issue involved was not only the personal safety of a small number of Britons, including some women and children, in China. It also was whether normal diplomatic relations can be maintained with a country in full turmoil like China with any guarantee for the lives of the men who conduct them.

Incidents of this sort have become increasingly common in China recently, though the attack on the British Embassy was the most serious.

Earlier this year Chinese Red Guards staged demonstrations for several days outside the Soviet Embassy in Peking. Similar demonstrations have been staged outside the Outer Mongolian and Kenyan missions there.

Outside China too, a Congolese mob only recently attacked and partially looted the Belgian Embassy in Kinshasa.

But British officials consider the attack on the British mission in Peking by far the most serious incident of this nature almost within living memory.

You have to go back to the Boxer Rebellion in China in 1900 to find any real parallel. On that occasion Chinese mobs murdered the German minister and besieged other foreign diplomats and their staffs in the legation quarter of Peking. The great powers' reaction then was to send an international military expedition to China to relieve the foreign missions and occupy the capital.

Obviously, as officials note, there is no question of such action today. In fact, the British government's deepest concern is how to get at least the women and children of the British Embassy out of China. There is no guarantee at the moment that the Chinese will let either them or the diplomats themselves leave the country.

The principle of diplomatic inviolability goes back at least to the Middle Ages, although the Turks did spoil things from time to time by tossing into prison the ambassador of countries with which they quarreled.

Under this principle an ambassador and his staff cannot be arrested or sued. They also are not liable to taxation in the country to which they are accredited.

The buildings of diplomatic missions also are considered the territory of their own nation. The police or armed forces of the country where they are established may not enter them without invitation.

Seize oil companies

ALGIERS UPI — Algeria today nationalized five American-run oil companies, the official journal said today in an announcement.

The announcement named the five companies as Esso-Standard Algeria, Esso-Africa and Esso-Saharienne, as well as Mobil Oil-Nord Africaine and Mobil Oil-France.

Algeria has been among militant Arab nations demanding punishment of Western nations accused of allegedly aiding Israel's June victory in the Middle East war.

Shopping Guide

The following guide to the nation's food buys for the week-end was prepared by the Department of Agriculture and Department of Interior for UPI.

WASHINGTON UPI — Shoppers getting ready for the long Labor Day weekend will find a colorful array of fresh fruits and vegetables along with ample supplies of meat and poultry in food stores across the nation.

For salads and cold plates, there is plenty of cabbage, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, green peppers, potatoes and tomatoes in the produce section. Also, featured is corn on the cob to serve piping hot with outdoor or indoor meals.

For desserts and snacks, look for plenty of fresh cantaloupes, grapes and watermelons in the fruit bins.

For the main course, poultry—both turkey and chicken—is the top feature, with many areas also featuring hams and beef chuck roasts.

Mrs. Grace Gambold accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gambold to Terre Haute Sunday where they were all day guests of Rev. and Mrs. Allan Harlan.

Sunday evening callers at the Davidson home were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Glidwell of Indianapolis and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hammond of Plainfield.

The Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors Corporation at its Indianapolis plant has chosen from Indianapolis and nearby high schools, ten graduates who finished their courses in 1967. Among the young men chosen was Larry Herrin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elston Herrin. He will take part in a 5-year work-study program at Flint, Mich. This will be a great opportunity for Larry and the others chosen for no doubt a good job lies ahead of them when the work-study schooling has ended. Local folks will be pleased to know that Larry has been selected. All through grade and high school he has made a better than average record.

An interested crowd of men watched a gang from the White Construction Company bring a giant diesel excavator into town Monday morning and maneuver truck and trailer around a curve and onto the Pennsylvania siding where they later loaded the diesel and a 70-foot steel crane. Every workman knew his place and his particular job and this giant road equipment was handled as if it were a toy. This heavy machinery has been in use on the new Road 70.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hathaway of Brazil were Sunday evening callers at the Harmon Hathaway home.

A project underway at present is the widening of State Road 75 between Coatesville and New Winchester. We are told that a four-foot strip of blacktop will be added to both the east and west sides of the highway. The Ragan Cemetery Association members have been notified that with the added width to the road, the concrete block gate posts and fence alongside the road must come down and cement culvert heads bulldozed out of the way. Old things have to give way to progress as it comes in its many forms and down will come the fence and posts that have stood for a half century.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bottorff were Sunday guests of Mrs. Lulu Berry of Danville. The Bottorffs arrived at her home before the noon hour and took with them an abundance of dinner since Mrs. Berry is an invalid.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davidson and her brother, Henry Harrison, of Bloomington, were luncheon and dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Davidson Thursday. Other dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Johnson and children of Plainfield.

Mrs. Robert Douglas and son of Indianapolis were all day guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coffey and family. Mrs. Douglas is a sister of Mrs. Coffey.

Jack Schaeffer, while digging potatoes this week, really unearthed an extra large one. The potato was 14 inches long and weighed three pounds.

Willis Bundy of Bainbridge passed away at the Putnam County Hospital Friday, Aug. 25, at the age of 81 years. He was born and educated at Amo and married Ruth Harlan of Coatesville. He was well known in all of Clay Township where he resided for several years. While a young man in Amo he became a member of the Order of Red Men.

He leaves the wife, Ruth, a son, Harvey Bundy, of Wana-maker, five grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at the Weaver Funeral Home in Coatesville and burial was in the Stilesville Cemetery. The minister who conducted the services was Rev. Gilbert McCammack.

Since school time is nearing we are reminded of a true school story. A primary teacher had handed to each pupil a test paper that was covered with pictures of garden vegetables. Each vegetable, such as potato, that began with the letter "p" was to be encircled. One little girl finished her paper and hustled it up the aisle to her teacher's desk. The teacher noticed that the pictured potato had no circle about it. When she called the child's attention to the error she received this reply: "Miss Rosalee, tater don't start with a 'p.' How right that little girl was. It might be said in passing that the words heard in the home will crop out in the school room. Tater was the correct word to this little youngster. If you had graded her paper how would you have marked it?"

The Lighter Side

By Dick West
WASHINGTON UPI — During the month of August, the war in Vietnam appears to have taken a strange new turn. Again.

There have been so many turning points it is difficult to establish which ones are significant. But the following sequence of events impressed me as being noteworthy:

Two weeks ago the United States for the first time began bombing North Vietnamese targets close to the Chinese border.

Last week Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told the Senate preparedness subcommittee there was no reason to believe the North Vietnamese "can be bombed to the negotiation table."

This week a national poll published a survey showing that the percentage of Americans who want to "get out of Vietnam as quickly as possible" rose from 24 per cent in July to 34 per cent in August.

All of this adds up to an apparent paradox: when there is bombing, the attitude of the country being bombed becomes more hawkish while the attitude of the country doing the bombing grows more dovish.

If that trend continues, the United States may well become the first country in history to bomb itself into submission.

Being alarmed over such a possibility, I discussed the matter with a military expert I know. A military expert is anyone who watches more television panel shows than you do. Your wife, for example.

"How much longer do you think the war will last?" I asked.

"It depends on how long we can stand up under the heavy pasting we are giving the enemy," he replied.

"Do you think there is any chance the United States can bomb itself to the negotiation table?"

"And what does the enemy do?"

"There were reports in London recently that the enemy had broken off contact with intermediaries who were trying to arrange negotiations."

"What does the enemy hope to gain by that?"

"They are hoping U. S. air superiority will increase to the point where we will have to surrender."

"By the way, are you a hawk or a dove?"

"I'm a dodo."

"I thought the dodo was extinct."

"It was. But under present conditions we may stage a comeback."

Opening lead — three of diamonds.

Good card reading is the backbone of good card play, for if you know how the cards in the two unseen hands are divided, it is seldom difficult to figure out the right method of play.

Take this hand where South is in six hearts and must play well to make the contract. West leads a diamond, which South ruffs.

From declarer's view, the outcome hinges on whether he can hold himself to one club loser.

If East has the king, South's chances are very good, but if West has the king, the contract is in jeopardy, since he may take two club tricks and defeat the contract.

South makes no attempt early in the hand to test the club situation. Instead he develops the play along normal lines so as to first obtain all the information possible about the makeup of the defenders' hands.

He draws two rounds of trumps, cashes the A-K of spades, and ruffs a spade, on which West's queen falls. When South now ruffs a diamond and cashes the ten of spades, this becomes the position:

North

South knows from the play that East started with four spades and two hearts, and knows from the bidding that he also started with either seven diamonds and no clubs, or six diamonds and one club.

It follows from this that South cannot lose more than one club trick if he simply leads a low club from his hand and plays low from dummy.

If East wins the trick, he must yield a ruff and discard, while if West the trick, he must either lead a club away from the king or present declarer with the same fatal ruff and discard.

Crispy Curtains

If your nylon curtains have become limp and saggy after washing, try a little foam salts in the rinse water next time.

To prevent messy dribbles when spooning batter from the bowl to cupcake tins, hold the cupcake papers in your hand to fill them. Saves washing the cupcake tins, too.

If you peel more potatoes than you care to cook, cover them with some water to which a few drops of vinegar has been added. Place them in the refrigerator and they will keep three or four days.

Chop Chop

Did you know that when something says "... chop very fine" ... you can do it with your electric blender? To chop onions, fresh parsley, carrots, garlic ... even canned tomatoes, just put small sections into your blender, add liquid and cover. Turn blender off and on a few times and drain.

Use iron-on-tape when lining homemade belts. This will assure sewing the material straight. Press the tape on one side of the material, along the edge. Turn the material over the belt and just press gently. Now your belts won't look homemade any more.

There are no dropouts from the school of experience.

Electric heat in August?

Actually, this is the easiest time of year to make the change. Even though the job of converting your present heating system to flameless electric heat requires only a couple of days, there is no point in waiting until the middle of winter to do it. Combined with whole-house air conditioning you'll get year 'round comfort that will stay modern for years to come. The folks at Public Service Indiana will be glad to show you how quickly and easily your home can be converted to total electric comfort.

Three slain in Nevada bank robbery

By Kenneth Inouye
OVERTON, Nev. UPI—Three employees of a small rural bank in this peaceful farming community were herded into a vault and shot to death Tuesday during a robbery.

Terry Lynn Conger, 23, a construction worker who lived in nearby Moapa, was arrested shortly after the slayings and booked on an open homicide charge and suspicion of armed robbery.

Detectives said it appeared the victims had been shot from behind. They said the bodies were "stacked like cordwood. It's not a pretty sight."

Residents of this small community of about 1,500 persons, where goats nibble the grass at the side of the road, were stunned by the killing of Bank of Las Vegas manager Larry Staley, 30, Overton; and Clerks Betty Hutman, 40, Overton, and Vera Wathington, 30, of nearby Logandale.

Bank officials said one teller's cash box had been cleaned out, and were checking the books to determine the amount of money taken by the bandit.

Clark County Sheriff's detectives who questioned Conger in Las Vegas said the suspect gave them no trouble.

"He was upset and cried but later became cool and evasive," a detective said.

Staley and the two women were shot in the bank vault about closing time at 3 p. m. Law enforcement officials, furnished with a description of the suspect by witnesses, set up roadblocks in the area and questioned motorists.

One description of the suspect was furnished by the clerk of a bait shop who said "a man waving a pistol" had threatened to rob the store but then changed his mind. And a youth who was paid $60 by the suspect to drive him back to his home, described the man to investigators.

Deputies then went to the suspect's home where they said he surrendered peacefully.

Fillmore News

By Mrs. Charles Smith
The Leonidas and Estella Foster families held the family reunion at the home of Virgil Johnson Sunday, August 13. Due to ill health of Mrs. Johnson it was held in the Johnson home instead of in Bloomfield where it is usually held. There were about 40 in attendance. Mrs. Estella Foster, the mother, who is 87 years old and her six children and their families attended.

Tuesday supper guests of Mrs. Ruth Smith were Mrs. Daisy Youngerman and Averell Huuer.

Plainfield man on parole board

INDIANAPOLIS UPI—Anthony Kuharich, Commissioner of Correction, announced Tuesday that Donald E. Phillips, Plainfield, had been elected chairman of the Indiana Parole Board.

Phillips was elected at an organizational meeting of the newly-appointed five-member parole board Monday night.

Phillips succeeds Bert Rudice, who was chairman of the board since 1961.

Phillips was assistant commissioner the past four years prior to his recent appointment by Governor Branigan as one of the parole board members.

As part of the reorganization of the Division of Parole, Kuharich also announced new appointments to the division.

Dean Duvall, who has been acting director of the parole division, will get the full title. He first joined the department in 1958.

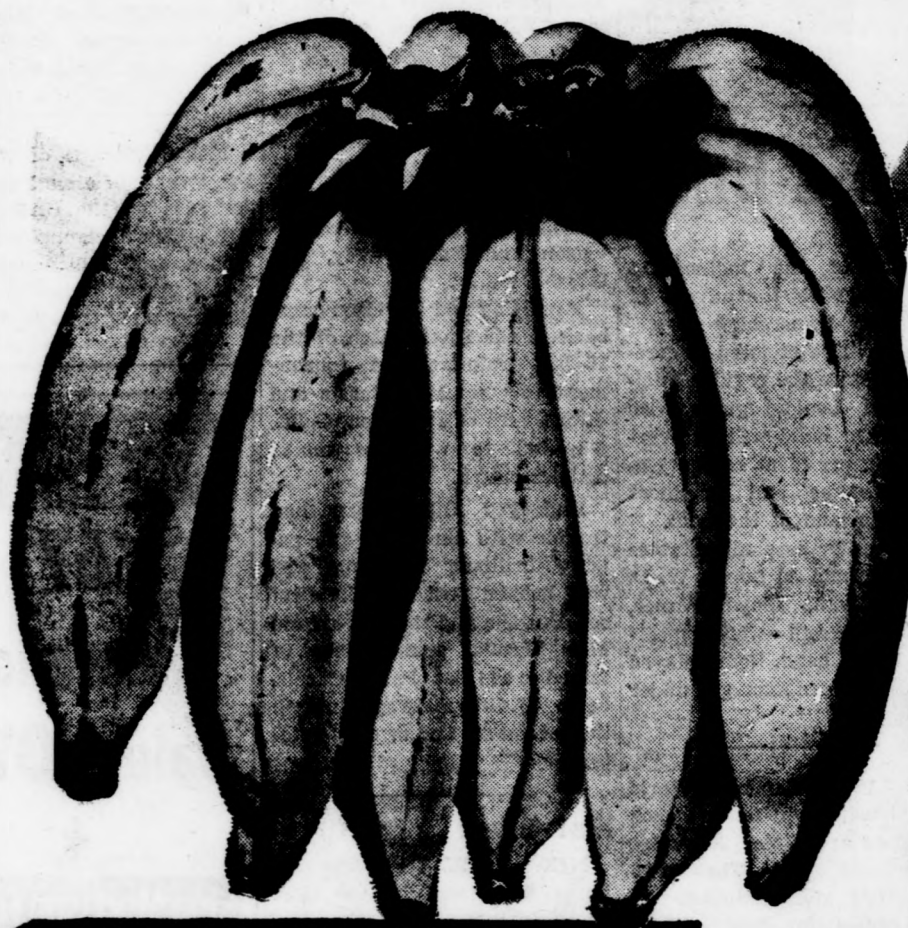

Russell P. Rea, supervisor of adult parole for the past 11 years, will become deputy director.

Russell T. Brown, a casework supervisor, will become supervisor of adult parole.

Harold G. Roddy, a senior parole officer, will be promoted to supervisor of training and casework.

Ira Car, Jr., a senior parole officer, becomes casework supervisor for the Indianapolis district office.

Boston Red Sox lead league by half game

By United Press International
The nearby highway and the streets leading to the Yankee Stadium Tuesday evening were clogged with autos bearing "Go, Red Sox, Go" stickers on their rear bumpers.

After 29 innings of baseball, 20 in the second game of the two-nighter, Boston obliged by taking over the American League lead, a half-game ahead of the Minnesota Twins.

The Red Sox beat the New York Yankees 2-1 behind Jim Lonborg's three-hitter in the opener but after 6 hours and nine minutes of the nightcap, they lost 4-3.

However, the chant of "Go, Red Sox, Go," still echoed through the stands even though the crowd of 40,134, apparently dominated by New England visitors, had diminished to less than 15,000 when Horace Clarke singled in the winning run at 1:58 a.m. EDT.

In the other games involving the tight American League race, Baltimore edged Minnesota 4-3; Detroit moved into third place, one percentage point behind the Twins, by sweeping a doubleheader from the California Angels 4-2 and

2-1, and the Chicago White Sox took their second loss in as many nights from the Washington Senators 3-0 to fall 2½ games behind. Elsewhere Cleveland edged Kansas City 9-8 in 10 innings.

"As much as I hated to lose this one tonight," said a tired Dick Williams, the Red Sox manager, "I can't brood about it. It was just one of those things. I try to forget the past and concentrate on the next game. It's this kind of an attitude that toughens a ball club and enables it to bounce back. We've been doing it all season."

Both Williams and Yankee manager Ralph Houk did a lot of head scratching and juggling in that second game. Boston used 21 players, including seven pitchers, and the Yankees employed four pitchers among 17 players.

It was most gratifying for Jim Bouton to win his first game. Bouton has known better days but he spent most of this season in the International League with the Syracuse chiefs.

Bouton worked the last five scoreless innings, allowing three hits.

John Kennedy started the winning Yankee rally with a one-out single. Bouton was hit by a pitch by losing pitcher Bucky Brandon and when Jose Santiago replaced him, Clarke ended the marathon game with a single.

In the opener Lonborg won his 18th game, helping his own cause by driving in the winning run.

Boyer smacks grand slam

By United Press International
Clete Boyer is one country boy who dislikes the wide open spaces.

Boyer, born in the hamlet of Cossville, Mo., which isn't big enough to qualify for the Almanac, prefers to be fenced in when performing his baseball feats.

Thus, the slick-fielding third baseman has been overjoyed by his switch from the roomy pastures of Yankee Stadium to the cozy confines of Atlanta Stadium. His delight has not been shared by National League pitchers.

"That would have been just another long fly in New York," said Boyer after belting a grand slam homer in the eighth inning of Tuesday night's 7-3 victory over Pittsburgh. "My power is to left and left-center. It's about 70 feet further to the fence in those fields at Yankee Stadium than it is here."

For the record, Boyer's blast sailed over the left centerfield fence, approximately 380 feet from home plate. It was his second grand slam homer of the season and his 23rd homerun, five more than he hit in his best year with the Yankees.

Boyer, whose best previous RBI output was 68, hiked his production pace to 81 with the bases-loaded homer which snapped a 3-3 tie. Tito Francona's single had driven in the tying run in the eighth before Boyer broke the game open with two out.

Cincinnati snapped Philadelphia's eight-game winning streak and moved back into second in the NL race with a 1-0 victory. New York blanketed pacesetter St. Louis 2-0, San Francisco shelled Los Angeles 11-1 and Houston defeated Chicago 5-3.

STATUS IN 1966

FINISH: Tied for last in Eastern division, with 3-11 record.

SIZEUP IN 1967
A YOUTH BUILDUP continues at Houston this season as the Oilers seek more defensive speed and a more potent offense centered this year, for the first time, around a new quarterback, Don Trull, following the trade of George Blanda.

Most heartening to Coach Wally Lemm, who returned to the Oilers prior to the 1966 season, has been the acquisition of three solid rookies, linebacker George Webster of Michigan State, guard Tom Regner of Notre Dame and tackle Carl Stith of Nebraska.

The Oilers scored only 16 points in their first two exhibitions, which they lost, but Hoyle Granger, a rookie star last year, stood out at fullback.

Gone are several of the veterans but back are some of the solid stars like Ode Burrell, leading ground gainer the last two years, who has been shifted to flanker, and Charley Frazier, who snared 12 TD passes last year.

Webster is expected to move in to help the defense which has been featured by such performers as 316-pound Ernie Ladd and some other hefty boys.

Sweep doubles championship

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. UPI—The pack rats of the Pacific Coast—Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco—had more silver today for their treasure cove.

They swept the U.S. women's doubles championship Tuesday at Longwood Cricket Club, besting third seeded Mrs. Donna Floyd Fales of New York and Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

In the men's division, Aussie Davis Cup partners John Newcombe and Tony Roche annexed their fourth major title by downing countrymen Owen Davidson and Bill Bowrey, 6-8, 9-7, 6-3, 6-3.

Mrs. King and Davidson came back in the final match of the 10-day, rain-troubled tournament to whip Miss Casals and Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., 6-3, 6-3 to win the mixed doubles crown.

Blue-eyed Billie Jean had trouble with her serve and usually brilliant volleying and was broken twice in the first set. But she and the 18-year-old Miss Casals, grand niece of famed cellist Pablo Casals, came to life midway through the second set and swept to victory.

Host playoff

NEW YORK UPI—The St. Louis Stars will be the host team Sept. 9 in the one-game playoff against the Philadelphia Spartans for the right to meet the National Professional Soccer League champion in the Challenge Cup game.

Indianapolis to honor Ownie Bush

INDIANAPOLIS UPI—With some pomp and ceremony and a touch of sentimentality thrown in, baseball pays tribute today to Owen J. (Ownie) Bush, president of the Indianapolis Indians and a fixture in the national pastime for 61 years.

It will be "Owen J. Bush Night" and changing of the name of the home-owned Indians' ball park from Victory Field to Bush Stadium will be officially acknowledged.

Purdue needs QB and center

LAFAYETTE, Ind. UPI — Purdue football coach Jack Mollenkopf said Tuesday he thinks his 1967 outfit will be a first division contender in the Big Ten "if we can come up with an adequate quarterback replacement."

The Boilermakers, Rose Bowl champs over Southern California last New Year's Day, lost their three-year starting signal-caller, All-America Bob Greise, who is graduated.

The other critical position open, Mollenkopf said, is at center where Mike Frame is the only letterman back.

Mollenkopf indicated the battle for quarterback was wide open. He said the "top candidates" were sophomores Mike Phipps and Don Kiepert and juniors Mike Engelbrecht and Dave Connors.

Eighty-five varsity candidates were expected to report for fall practice Friday, among them 30 sophomores and 32 returning lettermen. Fourteen of the 32 were Rose Bowl starters.

JOCKEYS SET DOWN
NEW YORK UPI — Jockeys Bobby Ussery and Manny Ycaza have been slapped with a 10-day suspension for interference at the start of a race at Aqueduct Monday.

Stewards said films of the Fall Highweight Handicap showed Ussery, ridden by Ycaza, aboard, impeded Flag Raiser at the start. Flag Raiser finished third.

MANTLE HURT
NEW YORK UPI — Mickey Mantle, who jammed his right knee while attempting to steal second in Monday night's loss to the Boston Red Sox, may be lost to the New York Yankees for a week.

Mantle, who has been playing first base to preserve his injury-prone legs, sustained the injury while being thrown out by former Yankee catcher Elston Howard.

BAINBRIDGE NEWS

By Mrs. Muriel Nelson, Correspondent

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Worley were Mr. and Mrs. Belcher of Ellettsville. Other visitors last week were Mr. Worley's brother, Marvin and wife of St. Clair Shores, Michigan.

Janet and Charles Lyons Jr., are to be commended for moving the yard surrounding the old Catholic Church and also in front of the church. They were not asked to do this but they did it free gratis. It certainly improved the looks of the street. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyons.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Clifford and family, and nephew, Mike Clifford, vacationed last week in Gatlinburg, Tenn. They visited one day with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Arnold in Mr. Sterling also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stone in North Middletown.

Mrs. Rose Giltz, Josephine and Richard of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Anna Giltz and grandson, Tony Dalton of Brazil, were dinner guests last Tuesday of Mrs. Laura Giltz.

Mrs. Laura Giltz attended a family dinner on Sunday at the home of Tom Dalton in Brazil, in honor of Mrs. Rose Giltz, their guest.

Frank Ashworth of Miami, Fla., returned to Greencastle, Monday after spending part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gooch. On Sunday they all visited Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Arnold in Fillmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith were weekend guests of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Jeffries and family in Chicago.

Mrs. Marie Ensor visited her sister in Springfield, Ill., over the weekend and helped her father, Mr. Harbison, celebrate his 84th birthday on Sunday.

Mrs. Clarence Bachert and granddaughters, Carla and Loretta Miles, Mrs. Gilbert O'Hair, Mrs. Stella O'Hair, Mrs. Gene Hess and Mrs. Jane Ann Harris and daughters, Shelly, Christie and Jamie were among those attending the O'Hair Reunion Sunday at Robe-Ann Park in Greencastle.

Gene Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bullerick, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miles, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Roe, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Zimmerman and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence O'Hair were among those attending the All-Star Pee Wee baseball tournament at Cloverdale Sunday afternoon and evening. Among those attending on Saturday were John Collett, Paul Collett, Howard Obenchain, Jeff Summers, Mrs. Poynter and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Greene and family and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fowler. The Bainbridge team won over Eminence on Saturday and also won over Greencastle Sunday afternoon but lost to Cloverdale Sunday night.

Some of the team members from here were Neil Miles, Mark Hess, Steve and Mike Bullerick, Ernie O'Hair and Harold Roe Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman McCamack and daughter from Florida were supper guests of his son, Lowell and family, one evening last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolby Collings entertained the Methodist minister, Rev. James at dinner Sunday.

Howard Obenchain of Falls Church, Virginia, was the guest last week of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Collett and also visited Mrs. Alice Mahoney of Greencastle.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Pursell spent Sunday in Terre Haute with Boyd Vaught, Mrs. Vaught had entered the hospital at Terre Haute. She is the sister of Mr. Pursell.

Mrs. Glenn Michael and Mrs. Vesta Mitchell visited part of last week with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kirby at Yale, Illinois.

Christopher and Gary Pruitt of Indianapolis were guests of their grandmother, Mrs. Vesta Mitchell over this weekend.

Robert Van Cleave and Charlene Herebert were married Saturday evening in Union Chapel Methodist Church in Indianapolis. Those attending from here were Robert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Van Cleave, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hess and Rebecca Lewman. A reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jaggard. The couple left for a trip to Expo 67. They will reside at 9221 Central Ave., Indianapolis.

A surprise birthday dinner was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bullerick and Geraldine for the former's sister, Mrs. Josephine Foshier. When Mrs. Foshier and her son Carl and family arrived from church, the group greeted her with the Happy Birthday song. It was also the anniversary of a young neighbor, Patsy McCamack and she was then honored with the song. Others present were Lowell McCamack, Janet and Julie, Mr. and Mrs. Max Bullerick of Waveland, Mr. and Mrs. James Curran, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Van Cleave, Mrs. Louella Hendrich, David, Bobby and Jonathan, Cheryl Purcell, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zenor, Roy and Cindy, Bruce Lane, Mesdames Effie Smith, Gwen Beck, Edith Sallust, Mabel Hart and Muriel Nelson. A long table had been set in the living room which seated the 29 people present and such a bountiful array of good food cannot be imagined. Everyone was seated and Carl Zenor returned thanks. After the delicious meal with all kinds of desert and home made ice cream made by Mrs. Bullerick, different ones had errands to do while others sat and visited and solved the world's problems. They all departed in late afternoon wishing Mrs. Foshier and Patsy many more birthdays. Mrs. Verna Bullerick of Waveland was a late afternoon and evening guest.

Falls from tree

INDIANAPOLIS UPI — Bill Lloyd, Jr., 6, Indianapolis, was killed Tuesday afternoon when a limb in a tree broke and he fell six feet.

The victim, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Lloyd, died instantly of a fractured skull, the Marion County coroner's office said.

Hollywood News

(By VERNON SCOTT)

HOLLYWOOD UPI — Don't ever say Hollywood ain't got no class. Grace Kelly made it to princess, right?

And now the Contessa Falzacoppa jetted in from Italy to play a role in a new movie. Because Countess Rossella Falzacoppa leaves little room for anything else on the marquee, including the title of the picture "The Legend of Lylah Clare," this Italian noblewoman had the grace to cut her name down to Rosella Falk.

While it lacks the scintilla of aristocracy, it must be remembered that Rosella is, after all, most democratic.

She is a redhead with wide-set hazel eyes and the facial bone structure of Garbo. Her accent is charming. Her background impeccable.

Back in the mid-17th century of her forebears was a cardinal of the church and a pillar of Tarquinia in Tuscany. There was also a saint in her family, Santa Lucia Filippini who was an important nun in the 19th century. There have been distinguished priests along the line too.

Her father was a general in the Italy army in both World Wars and now Rosella, an actress.

"Sometimes I think there has been a little madness in our family in recent generations," she smiled. "One of my great uncles was an enormously wealthy man and left his fortune to the Dante poetry foundation." There are those who would agree that this indeed, is madness.

Rosella has built her own fortune. She owns an Italian theatre company in which she works regularly. Clearly it is a perfect way for an actress to escape unemployment.

Rosella has made movies in Italy. Fellini's "8½" for instance, but she has never worked in Hollywood before.

"Italian directors, to save money, have made it a practice to film movies with interesting faces they find in cafes or along the streets. They paid them almost nothing. Then they would have actors come in and dub their voices."

"That was the Desica and Rossellini method. But in the past three years they want performers instead of interesting faces."

"Still almost every picture is dubbed anyway. If the director doesn't like the dialogue when the picture is completed, he calls us in and has us read entirely different lines. But the dubbing is done so well even Italian audiences cannot tell the difference."

4 traffic deaths reported Tues.

By United Press International

Four traffic deaths in Indiana Tuesday boosted the state's 1967 highway fatality toll to at least 929, compared with 1,010 a year ago.

Edwin E. Abbott, 31, Mount Vernon, and his wife, Donna, 29, were killed and their three children injured in a car-truck collision Tuesday evening on Indiana 64 near Birdseye in Crawford County.

Police said a truck driven by David Gabrel, 26, Jasper, apparently crossed the center line and collided with the oncoming Abbott car.

James Cunningham, 31, Yorktown, was killed Tuesday when his farm tractor overturned on a Delaware County road near his hometown.

Robert McGill, Indianapolis, was killed Tuesday night when his car collided with a Pennsylvania Railroad train in Indianapolis.

Crushed to death

CHESTERTON, Ind. UPI — A Chesterton man was killed Tuesday morning when a heavy slab of steel crushed him at the Bethlehem Steel Company's 80-inch hot steel mill.

Donald Bechimsald, 27, was "scarfing" a slab of steel when it slipped from its cable. He was killed instantly. "Scarfing" is the process of cleaning the slabs of scale and rough edges.

Union dismisses auto contracts

By David W. Chute
DETROIT UPI—United Auto Workers bargainers today dismissed new contract proposals by the big three car makers as "entirely inequitable and inadequate."

The union's bargaining committees for General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. urged the union hierarchy to reject the company offers outright.

"UAW national negotiating committees at GM, Ford and Chrysler have carefully considered the proposals made yesterday in union by the three automobile companies and are unanimously recommending to their respective national councils that the proposals be rejected," the bargainers said in a statement.

"The three companies' offers are entirely inadequate and inequitable when measured against the fantastic profitability and productivity of the automobile industry and do not meet the pressing needs of the automobile industry's workers and their families."

The statement set the stage for formal rejection of the company offers, which included average cash increases of up to $2,000 per man over the three-year contract period.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther called the union's executive board into session today and Thursday to discuss the company offers and plot bargaining strategy for the final seven days before the Sept. 6 strike deadline.

State parks expect crowds

INDIANAPOLIS UPI—Director John E. Mitchell of the Indiana Department of Natural Resources said today 148 state recreational properties are ready for what may be the biggest attendance weekend of the year—the long Labor Day holiday.

Memorial Day, July 4th and Labor Day are the three peak periods of park attendance. This year, the July 4th figures were down because alewife along the Lake Michigan shores drastically cut patronage of the state's most popular park in the Dunes.

Mitchell said all 22 state parks, 12 state forests, 14 fish and game areas and 87 public fishing sites are open, along with all but one of the 14 state memorials. The closed memorial is the T.C. Steele home in Brown County, which is being modernized.

In addition, the State Museum here is open Tuesday through Friday, but staff problems have not yet been solved to allow it to open on Saturday and Sunday.

Mitchell said gate admission fees at state parks will continue through Oct. 29.

Grills assails increased fees

INDIANAPOLIS UPI—Sen. Nelson Grills, D-Indianapolis, charged today in an open letter to the presidents of the four state universities that increased fees were due to "frills and luxuries" and not to legislative economy.

Grills urged that the universities "reconsider the increases in tuition which you have further imposed upon an already overburdened Indiana taxpayer with children to educate."

The letter was addressed to Pres. Elvis Stahr of Indiana, Frederick Hovde of Purdue, John Emens of Ball State, and Alan Rankin of Indiana State.

"The increase in fees was not the result of a legislative failure to appropriate sufficient funds," Grills said. "It was the result of the university administrations refusing to remove from higher education the frills and luxuries unnecessary for an adequate university education.

"As a member of the last General Assembly, I request that each of your institutions correct the completely erroneous and ungrateful accusation against the last General Assembly and take immediate steps to reduce the cost of undergraduate education by ceasing all activities which are unnecessary for an adequate education," Grills added.

Administration hit by Ford

BOSTON UPI — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford asked today at the Johnson administration's Vietnam policies, calling on the President to "either succeed or get out."

The Michigan lawmaker told the American Legion national convention, "our fighting men have been tragically handicapped by the administration's policy of gradualism."

Ford accused the administration of "playing it by ear" for more than two years. He warned that unless a clear and coordinated plan were developed with the determination at the top to see it through, the history of the Vietnam war would be written in five words: "too little and too late."

"The administration has failed to carry out the first commandment of military strategy — cut off the enemy's supplies at the source, destroy the logistical support he needs to make war," Ford said.

The Republican leader called on President Johnson to make his position clear on whether he stands with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara against stepping up the air war or with his military chiefs and members of Congress who believed an intensified air war would boost chances for success.

"Is Mr. McNamara a disciple of defeat?" Ford asked. "If he is and the President stands with Mr. McNamara, then the American people are committed to a war of attrition that could last for 10 to 20 years."

Calling the war "pretty much of a standoff right now" Ford said the South Vietnamese regular army has failed to meet the military challenge and the local militia has failed to provide the security needed to make the pacification program work.

"Tragically the Saigon government probably would collapse if both the Americans and North Vietnamese were to withdraw from the battlefield and let the South Vietnamese military and the Viet Cong fight it out," he said.

Ford spoke out less than 24 hours after Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Legion National Commander John E. Davis defended the President's Vietnam commitments.

Lynda, George's romance over

WASHINGTON UPI — Lynda Bird Johnson is telling friends it's all over between her and movie star George Hamilton.

The President's 23-year-old daughter and the handsome actor have been cooling their romance for some time now and she is confiding to close friends that it is definitely a thing of the past.

Lynda has not seen Hamilton since her sojourn in London last July. Hamilton's press agents put the word around that she would be showing up in Columbus or Warren Ohio, to catch George in a road company performance of "The Philadelphia Story." But Lynda snubbed the show.

The love-light has been flickering low for a long time. They dated more than two years, meeting in Washington, the LBJ ranch, Hollywood, Acapulco and other places where jet-setters gather. There even was talk of a march to the altar. But now all bets are off.

Lynda Bird has been switching her attentions to a White House aide: Marine Capt. Charles Robb, 28, of Milwaukee.

Lynda has spent several weekends with Robb and other companions at their cottage at Rehoboth Beach, Del. He is in constant attendance at the White House and when she beckoned to him at the state dinner in honor of the Shah of Iran, he quickly came to her side.

The White House aides-all bachelors-provide a steady escort service for presidential daughters. They are in Lynda's age bracket and share her interests.

Hamilton was admired among Lynda's friends for his suavity. There is hardly a person who does not credit him with Lynda's transformation from a gawky schoolgirl into a dazzling swinger with his Hollywood know-how. He is responsible for her new interest in clothes, her makeup techniques and shoulder-length hair—"George likes it long."

During the past few years, when they have not been together, Lynda has kept up with pinup boy through television and the movie magazines. His publicity rating went up by leaps and bounds when he began showing up on the White House scene.

The other White House aides are now deferring to Robb, who is a tall, lean serious type. He undoubtedly would fit better the Johnsonian idea of a boyfriend for his daughter. But the President does not interfere with Lynda's romances. He wants her to be happy.

He was quite fond of Navy Lt. Bernard Rosenbach of Comfort, Tex., the man Lynda once was engaged to before she went to live in the White House.

3 girls attend workshop

Recently a 2-week TV, Drama workshop was held in Indianapolis under the sponsorship of the Church Federation. Three girls from Putnam County attended the workshop. They were: Donna South, Bainbridge, Ann Silander and Sally Eppelheimer of Greencastle. The girls lived and studied at the Christian Theological Seminary in Indianapolis.

A play called "Christ in the Concrete City" was produced as a drama and then adapted for television. The closed circuit TV studio at the seminary was used by the 17 high school students as a classroom. The students directed the play, were the actors and ran all of the television equipment there.

Other than the play many interesting and fun activities were planned and enjoyed by all.

The 2 weeks were "choked full" of fun and learning "How to communicate the Word of God through television and drama."

Residents complain

INDIANAPOLIS UPI — Seventeen residents of Colfax and Darlington complained today that "when it rains, the telephone system goes out of service."

The complaint was filed with the Indiana Public Service Commission against the Colfax exchange of Peoples Cooperative Telephone Co.

The petition asked the PSC to either order the utility to make improvements in a long list of items or to revoke the certificate of necessity.

In addition to rainy day problems, the petitions said the service is out at other times also, there are too many parties on a line, the calling area is "extremely limited," static and noise on the lines makes hearing difficult, and it is hard to place a long distance call.

Rockwell still not interred

ARLINGTON, Va. UPI — Chieftains of the American Nazi party said they would bury their slain leader, George Lincoln Rockwell, later today but declined to say where or when. Denied access to any military cemetery because of their defiant refusal to forego swastikas and other Nazi trappings, Rockwell's lieutenants met at their ramshackle headquarters here to decide what to do next about funeral services.

Word drifted out of their conclave that they had agreed to bury Rockwell later in the day but a promised statement on details was delayed throughout the morning.

Sneak previews next week

By Rick du Brow

HOLLYWOOD UPI—A decision by NBC-TV to present numerous "sneak previews" next week of potential future series has thrown back the new television premiere season into something of a turmoil.

The viewer may well be hard-pressed to tell the actual premieres of new weekly shows from the one-shot "sneak previews" that NBC-TV is testing via the home audience.

Since all of next week's premieres are to be presented by NBC-TV's two competitors, ABC-TV and CBS-TV, one can assume NBC-TV would not be all mind upsetting the long-planned promotion campaigns of its network foes.

NBC-TV's premieres will not be on until the following week, and they have the field virtually all to themselves.

Most of NBC-TV's "sneak previews" are reported to be prospects as midseason replacements or as 1968-69 entries. Says "Variety":

"It will mark the first time a network has ever, on a grand scale, staged on-air tryouts of contenders for the schedule. To be sure, NBC does hope to shade some of the Nielsen gloss from the well-promoted CBS and ABC preem premieres... but that's not the real reason for the spurge... the week of tryouts is at the behest of NBC research, which hopes to learn from the experience the degree of pure audience interest in the various series projects, without any artificial pumping up through ballyhoo."

Two sneak previews will be presented next Tuesday: "Li'l Abner" and "Sheriff Who?", a Western satire in which a town's lawmen keep getting bumped off or run off. On Sept. 8, there will be "The Hardy Boys," based on the famous books; "The Ghostbreaker," about a young professor who investigates allegedly supernatural incidents; "Police Story," which is just that; and "Three for Danger," an adventure tale centering around a 95-foot schooner.

Finally, on Sept. 9, there will be "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," a variety hour starring the comedy team; "Weekend," about the world of teenagers on leave from school and homework; and "Campo 44," a comedy set in an Italian World War II military prison. Apparently "Weekend" and "Campo 44" have been written off as series by NBC-TV.

Concerning the entire "sneak preview" plan, TV Guide reports: "Officials at other networks candidly admitted they expected the NBC gimmick to cut into their premiere ratings, but they wondered whether viewers might not take these pilots to be NBC's new fall shows and find disappointment and confusion when they tune in the following week and see other unfamiliar series in their place."

It's band day at State Fair

INDIANAPOLIS UPI — A mammoth band contest highlights today's Education and High School Band Day at the Indiana State Fair.

Eighty-five bands with a total of more than 10,000 musicians will strut their stuff in front of the grandstand, with the 15 finalists battling tonight for top honors.

Ben Davis of Marion County is the defending champion. Runners up last year were Crown Point, Madison Heights, Anderson, and Richmond.

Tuesday's Farmers' Day Parade served as a dress rehearsal for some of the bands as 62 units, including floats, participated.

Pike Twp. of Marion County was judged the top band, followed by Indianapolis Secina, Mount Vernon (Hancock County), Carthage and Shoals next, in that order.

The blue ribbon in the all-ways-popular pet parade went to four-year-old David McCord and his three-year-old brother, Tom, of Greenfield with their pony, "Bev." Susan Reimer, 11, Indianapolis took runner up honors with a duck, "Downy."

The float competition of the Farmers' Day Parade was divided into two divisions. Two 4-H clubs from Hancock County—the Blue Jays and Eager Beavers—were tops in the youth division, followed by Greenfield Rainbow Girls.

In the adult division, the Pulaski County Farm Bureau was first and the Clay County Farm Bureau second.

Clint Bucher, 18, Union Mills, was crowned 4-H dairy showman with his Holstein entry.

Meanwhile, competition in open judging picks up today, including the carcass barrow show in the Swine Building. Breed grand champions chosen in 4-H competition Tuesday included:

Holstein—C. M. Bottema, Indianapolis.

Jersey—Ann Riggs, Evansville.

Ayreshire—Danny Felton, Muncie.

Brown Swiss—Carol DeWitt, New Palestine.

Guernsey—Carol McAhern, Goshen.

Jerry Hurt, Montmorenci, won the greased pig contest sponsored by the Future Farmers of America.

LAW INJURED
PITTSBURGH UPI — The 1967 baseball season has ended a bit early for veteran right-hander Vernon Law of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Pirates announced Tuesday that Law, who has been bothered with a groin injury, has left the club for his home in Meridian, Idaho. Law, 37, had a 2-6 record this season—his 17th in the majors.

Negro headed for Supreme Court

By Steven Gerstel

WASHINGTON UPI — The Senate approaches a milestone in the nation's history today in considering the nomination of Thurgood Marshall, great-grandson of a Negro slave, for a seat on the highest court in the land.

Marshall, nominated for the Supreme Court by President Johnson on June 13 to succeed retiring Justice Tom C. Clark, was assured of confirmation, though an early Senate session was scheduled, apparently in anticipation of lengthy speeches by Southern opponents.

The 59-year-old Baltimore-born jurist has won Senate confirmation twice in the past for federal judicial posts. In 1962, after almost a year's wait, he was finally confirmed as a judge of the 2nd U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. But three years later his appointment to U. S. Solicitor General, the post he now holds, was almost routinely handled.

Before President Kennedy named him to the appeals court, Marshall was one of the nation's leading civil rights lawyers, arguing 32 cases before the Supreme Court and winning 29.

Among his victories as head of the legal defense fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) was the celebrated 1954 decision in which the high court reversed the half-century-old "separate but equal" doctrine and outlawed segregated public schools.

Marshall's nomination to the supreme court was approved by the senate judiciary committee on an 11-5 vote after several days of hearings.

The committee majority said in its report that Marshall was a "man who is uniquely qualified, and one might say perfectly prepared to become a supreme court justice."

Wins 10 meter dash

UDDEVALLA, Sweden UPI — Willie Davenport of Southern University won the 10 meters dash Monday night in an international track and field meet.

Davenport was clocked in 10.7 seconds and beat Poland's Andrej Badenski, who finished in 11 flat.

Bringing Tito message to LBJ

By Stewart Hensley

WASHINGTON UPI—Yugoslavia's foreign minister arrives in Washington late today with a message from President Tito to President Johnson seeking U. S. endorsement of a compromise plan to end the Israeli-Arab deadlock in the Middle East.

The plan, which Tito formulated after a recent visit to Egypt, Syria and Iraq, is said to include three principal elements. Being hand-carried by foreign minister Marko Nikezic, it calls among other things, for:

Withdrawal of Israeli forces from the territory they occupied in their lightning defeat of the Arabs in June.

Restoration of the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF) to safeguard peace along the boundaries.

A big power guarantee, by the United States, Russia, Britain and France, of the previous borders. Tito is said to believe such a guarantee would bear weight if it were made through the U. N. Security Council in some manner.

In return for withdrawing its forces, Israel would receive something vaguely defined as "semirecognition" by the Arabs—possibly a halt to their state of war against the Jewish state—without, however, formal recognition of Israel.

Nikezic, who once served as his Yugoslav ambassador to Washington, was due at 5:45 p. m. EDT.

It was understood that Tito found Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser more flexible in his attitude toward some compromise settlement than were the leaders of Syria and Iraq.

Rains improve soil moisture

LAFAYETTE UPI — Widespread showers last week improved soil moisture conditions and alleviated the threat of a drought in Indiana — particularly in the northeastern portion, it was reported today.

Robert E. Straszheim, agricultural statistician at Purdue, reported in his weekly weather and crop report that topsoil and subsoil moisture remained mostly short to adequate. He said additional moisture was needed to help maturing crops.

"Crops in the southern and southwestern parts of the state continue to mature under favorable conditions," Straszheim said. The principal farm activities during the week favorable for field work were baling, weed control, silo filling, conservation work and preparing for fall harvest.

Corn continued to lag in maturity and was reported to be 20 per cent in, compared with 25 per cent last year.

Soybeans, in particular need of additional moisture, were only 5 per cent reported turning yellow — behind last year.

Pastures reflected the soil moisture condition and improved somewhat during the week. Wheat preparation moved ahead, with 50 per cent reported plowed compared to 45 per cent for average.

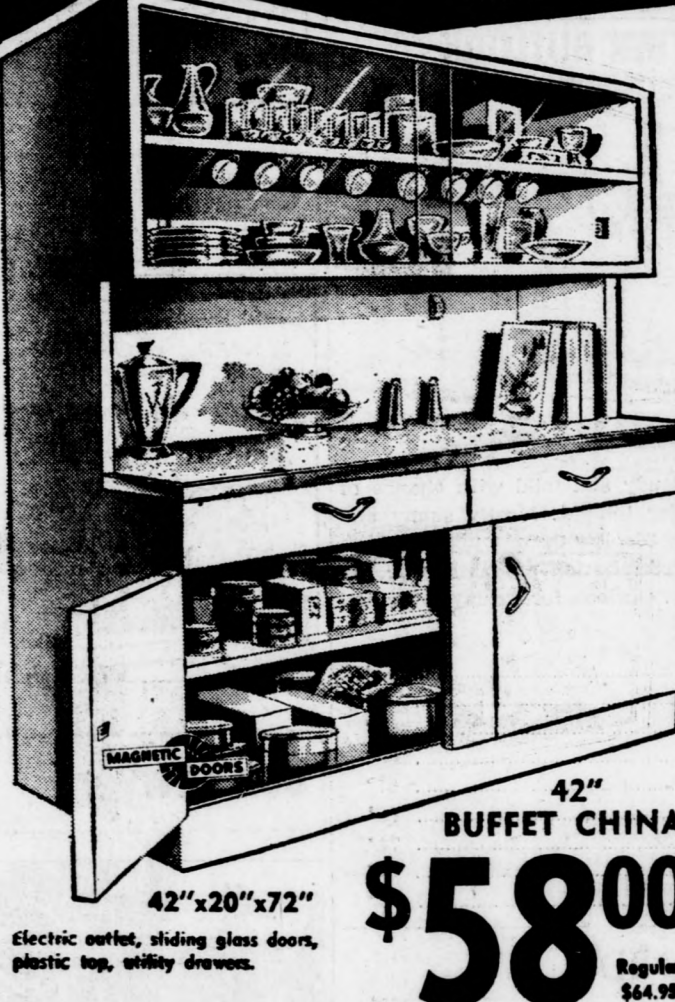

The tomato harvest was in full swing, with ripening delayed by cool nights.

For June and July, state climatologist Lawrence A. Schaaf reported no section in Indiana had a moisture surplus. Departures from normal ranged from .7 of an inch in the northwest to 4.4 inches west-central.

Russellville girl is State Fair winner in 4-H dress revue

Miss Rhonda Sutherland, of Russellville, was chosen as a winner in the State 4-H Dress Revue held Saturday, August 26 in the Coliseum at the Indiana State Fairgrounds.

The award is a trip to New York and Washington D. C. sponsored by the State Fair Board.

Ninety girls modeled garments they had made after being selected at preliminary revue held earlier in the week. Six girls were named finalists and Rhonda was the model selected in the Dresses II or Dress-up Dress classification. Her costume consisted of a semi-fitted dress in a heather gold wool with a matching hat, brown shoes and purse.

Rhonda, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sutherland, is 16 years old and will be a junior at Russellville High School. She is a member of the Russellville Girl's Club, 4-H Club and has completed 7 years in the 4-H Clothing project.

Three other Putnam County 4-H girls were among the 90 models in the Dress Revue Saturday afternoon having placed in the top 15 of their categories. They were: Becky McFarland of Monroe Township, who modeled a melon colored crepe formal; Carolyn Torr of Greencastle who modeled a black and white checked wool coat with matching cap and Vicki Wallace of Monroe Township who modeled a school dress in gold and beige checked wool with matching gold cap.

It is unusual for a county to have four out of six possible models in the State Dress Revue.

Other Putnam County winners at the State Fair are:

West German official is seriously injured in fall

HAMBURG, West Germany UPI — West German defense minister Gerhard Schroeder, perhaps the most pro-American leader in Bonn, today was hospitalized with "serious" head injuries suffered when he slipped on a fruit peel and fell.

Schroeder was flown to Hamburg by helicopter from the North Sea island of Sylt where he had been vacationing when the accident happened.

The 56-year-old defense chief, runner-up to Kurt Georg Kiesinger in the last Bonn race for the chancellorship, slipped on the fruit peel Tuesday night at his vacation home in Kampen.

A defense ministry spokesman said he suffered "serious" head injuries in the ensuing fall. The spokesman did not give further details and refused to say if Schroeder fractured his skull.

A spokesman at the university clinic in Hamburg where Schroeder was taken also declined to talk about the defense minister's condition.

He did reveal that one of West Germany's most noted neurologists, Dr. Rudolf-Wilhelm Janzen, was helping treat Schroeder.

A one-time protege of the late chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Schroeder had planned to return to Bonn next week to brief members of the nation's defense committee on Bonn's latest plans to reorganize West Germany's armed forces.

Kiesinger, presently vacationing at Kressbronn on Lake Constance Bodensee, was immediately notified by telephone of Schroeder's accident.

Israel to extend refuge deadline

By United Press International

Israel today bowed to world opinion and extended indefinitely the deadline for "approved" Jordanian refugees to return to the west bank of the Jordan River. Arab chiefs gathered in Khartoum, the Sudan for a summit conference.

The surprise concession by Israel to allow west bank refugees return after Thursday followed a meeting Monday between Foreign Minister Abba Eban and American ambassador Walworth Barbour.

Israeli Foreign Office sources said as many as 10,000 refugees who had not taken advantage of their approved applications would be able to return to the west bank at their convenience.

After weeks of planning and haggling in various capitals, the summit conference of Arab chiefs of state was scheduled to open this afternoon to decide what to do about their unwanted neighbor who defeated them in the Middle East war, Israel.

1,200 prisoners freed by Cong campaign

SAIGON UPI — The Viet Cong today invaded a provincial capital, staged a 1,200-man prison break and attacked 29 U.S. and government military units in a record terror campaign designed to frighten away voters from South Vietnam's presidential election.

The guerrilla battalions struck in coordinated assaults and then faded back into the jungles shortly before the arrival of a VIP American delegation sent by President Johnson to observe the vote.

Holiday warning

CHICAGO UPI — When Americans take to the highways after 6 p.m. local time Friday for the Labor Day weekend from 560 to 660 of them will not return home, the National Safety Council estimates.

The death toll will be from 90 to 190 greater than that of a non-holiday period of the same length at this time of the year.

The council also estimated that at least 9.7 billion vehicle-miles will be driven, 300,000 more than normal travel during a comparable period.

Bon appetit

WASHINGTON UPI — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee issued a report Tuesday on how much it paid to feed visiting dignitaries during the last fiscal year. Most of the bills were hefty.

The committee lavished $91 on "coffee, tea and food" for President Cevdet Sunay of Turkey and $82.28 for "coffee and food" for King Hassan II of Morocco, among others. But the biggest bargain came April 27 when the panel provided "coffee, tea and food" to four members of Kenya parliament. The total tab was $8.

Record gusher

TUNIS UPI — The Occidental Oil Co. in Libya has brought in the largest well in the world, the Tunisian news agency (TAP) reported Tuesday. TAP said the well can produce 35,000 barrels a day, ing he called more important than a battlefield victory.

The Viet Cong swept into the coastal city of Quang Ngai, shelled a Vietnamese and American army headquarters, blew up a fuel station and freed 1,200 captive guerrillas and other criminals. They also killed one GI and wounded 12 to lead off assaults that left three Americans dead and 39 injured in South Vietnam's northern provinces.

Allied troops managed to round up 400 of the escapees. But elsewhere, the Viet Cong attacks came like hammer blows.

The Viet Cong swept down from mountain hideouts in election-spoiling raids predicted by U.S. intelligence and in one-two-three fashion lashed American and Vietnamese bases around the ancient imperial city of Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon and 70 miles above Quang Ngai.

At the Phu Bai headquarters of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division near Hue they damaged 13 helicopters and wounded 12 Leathernecks. Their mortar shells ripped into a nearby Navy Seabee battalion, killing two men and wounding 16. They tore up a government training center and knocked down two watchtowers set up to warn against guerrilla raids.

The guerrillas drove into jungles around Saigon so recently policed by U.S. Army sweeps. The Viet Cong slammed 20 rounds of mortar and rocket-propelled grenades into a U.S. Army base camp, wounding 10 GIs, just two miles northeast of Saigon.

Twenty miles northwest of the capital guerrilla gunners shot down an Army helicopter and then knocked down another which whirled in or a rescue mission. Three U.S. troops were injured.

Trial and execution of 2 anti-Maoists televised

HONG KONG UPI — Shanghai Radio today said two anti-Maoists "were executed by shooting on the spot" during a trial televised to Shanghai's 10 million residents. The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Peking that Red Guards again demonstrated outside the Soviet Embassy.

Tanjung said the militant youth installed loudspeakers around the embassy and broadcast anti-Soviet slogans in Russian. It said they blocked "many entrances" to the embassy, long under propaganda attack in the Sino-Soviet ideological conflict.

Shanghai Radio said two enemies of party Chairman Mao Tse-tung were executed before the 10,000 persons who attended their public trial in Communist China's largest city. The broadcast said the proceedings were televised.

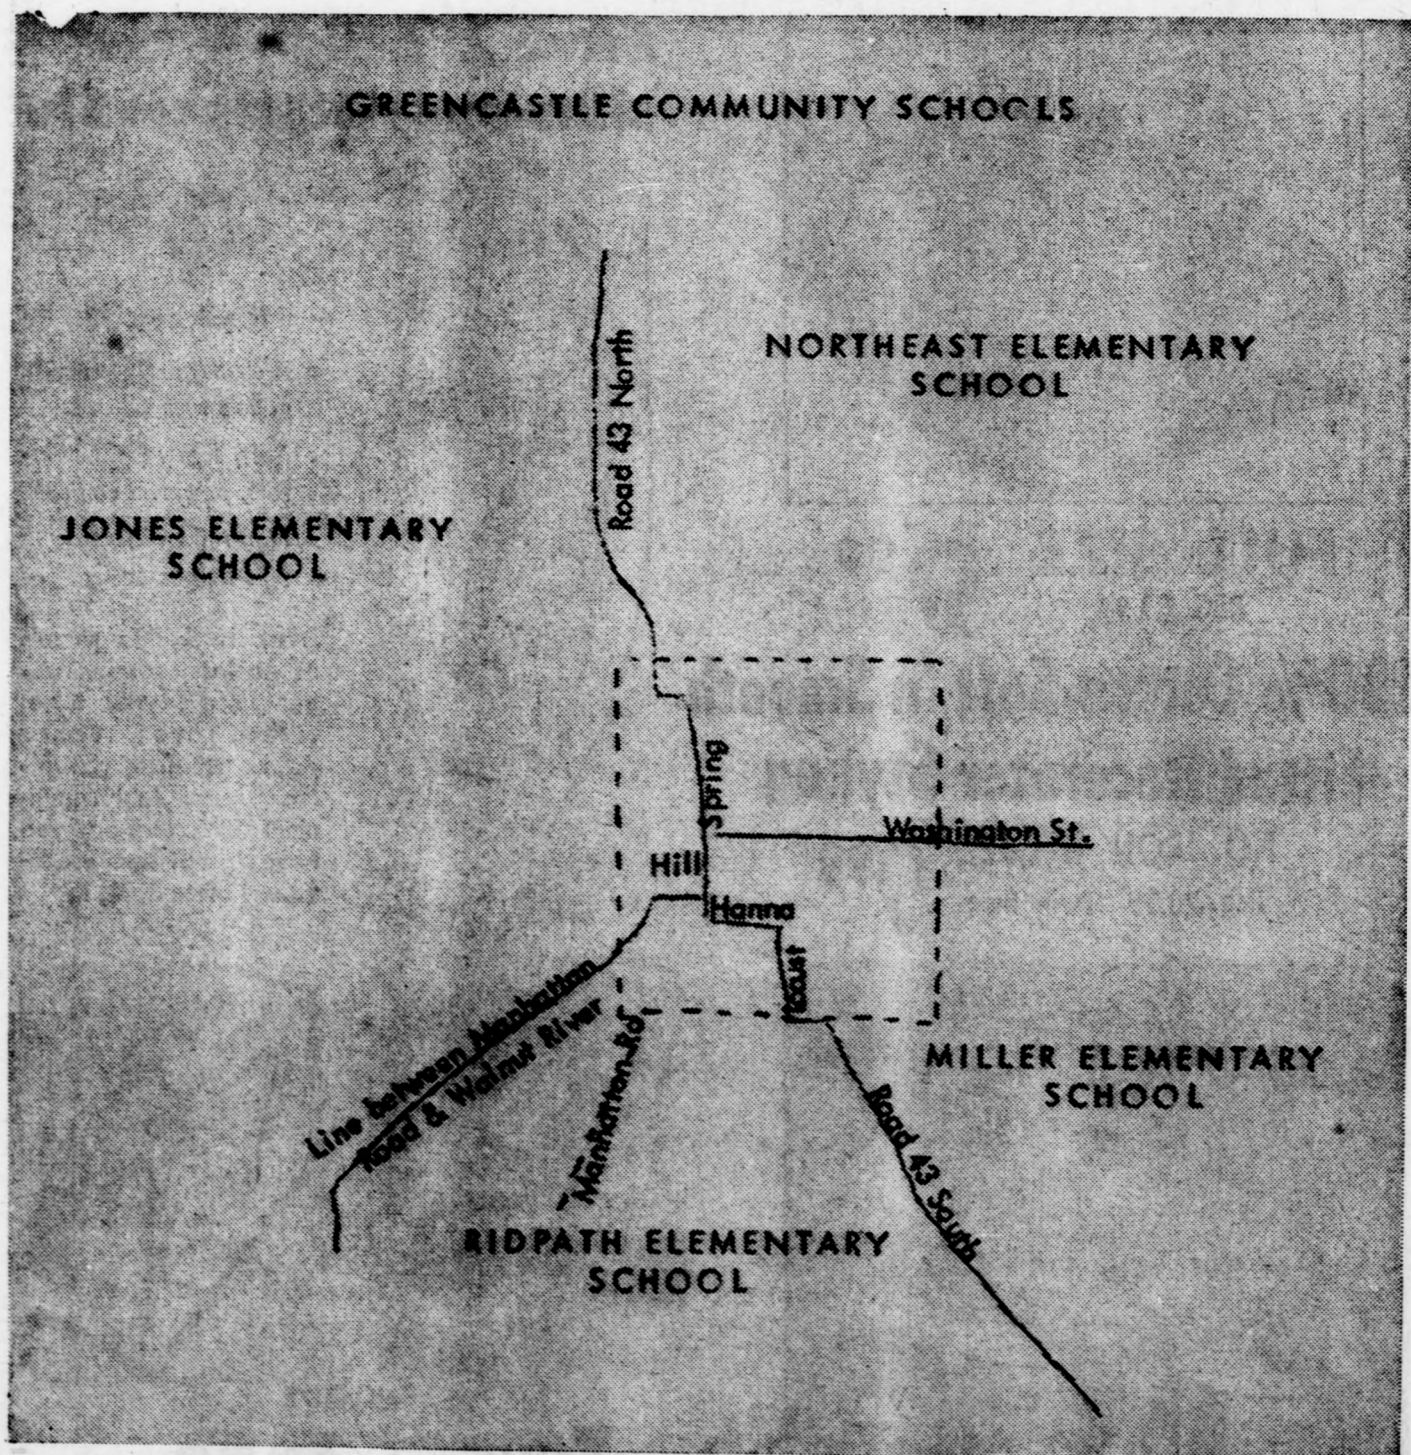

"People cheered," the broadcast said in describing reaction to the executions.
